Patrick Gorski

Assignment #4

News from April 13th but can vary a day because of time zone.

Coronavirus continues its path of destruction…

- China on Monday reported 108 new symptomatic coronavirus cases on the mainland, marking the highest number of confirmed infections in a single day in over a month. [U.S. News and World Report/Alexa Lardieri]
- International Olympic Committee President Thomas Bach revealed that the IOC is preparing to spend several hundred million dollars in additional costs due to the postponement of the 2020 Tokyo Games. [Nippon/The Jiji Press, Ltd] (No author given)
- Prime Minister Boris Johnson was discharged from a central London hospital Sunday after weeklong treatment for the novel coronavirus. [Politico/Charlie Cooper]
- One Navy sailor has died from Coronavirus and 585 sailors assigned to USS Theodore Roosevelt have tested positive for COVID-19. [NPR/Laurel Wamsley]
- Veterans Affairs reported 241 patients have died from the illness, COVID-19, a number that has risen dramatically from March 30th's total death toll of less than 20. [NY Post/Leo Shane III]

If you look below you can see my additional assignment because originally, I thought the assignment was each individual day featuring in a week.

Patrick Gorski

Assignment #4

Coronavirus continues its path of destruction…

- US relief checks come to the rescue, but economic damage piles up. [AP News/CHRISTOPHER RUGABER, PAUL WISEMAN and KELLI KENNEDY]

- British Prime Minister Boris Johnson was moved out of intensive care Thursday but remains in hospital to continue treatment for the new coronavirus, his office said. [NBC News/Henry Austin]

- 81 more die of coronavirus in Illinois as statewide case tally tops 19,000 cases [Chicago Sun-Times/Jake Wittich]

- Researchers at the Mayo Clinic cautioned about the impact false negative test results, which could yield a "second wave" of cases [Syndicated Local – WCCO | CBS Minnesota]

- However, in a not anxiety filled news world, several news outlets are popping up featuring "good" news. The current news is making people anxious. Instagram accounts dedicated to good news, such as @SomeGoodNews and @GoodNews_Movement, have seen an uproar in follower counts over the past few weeks. [The New York Times/Taylor Lorenz]